My dear Mr. Lingerian,

I note with considerable interest and appreciation that the Central Presbyterian Church of Newark is celebrating its One Hundredth Anniversary. I, therefore, take this opportunity to extend greetings to the good people of the Central Church.

I have found it necessary to know something about the history of our different churches, and in my study, of course, I have read the story of the founding and life of the Central Church. I have known four of the pastors although I came to Newark when the Rev. George Walton King, the predecessor of Mr. Graham, was the pastor. I knew the Rev. S. Edward Young and Rev. C. E. Granger. My acquaintance with them, however, was made after they had left Newark.

A century measures a long period of time during which a church has continued in the active service of God and ministry to God's people. It is impossible to estimate the results of the work of this long period. Figures will never tell the story and God alone can measure the success.

The members of Central Church can look back upon the past with gratitude, and I am quite sure they can look forward to the future with great hope, believing that the same God who has led the church in days gone by will continue to lead in days to come.

Faithfully yours,

CHARLES LEE REYNOLDS.

SOUTH END PROTESTANT MINISTERS' ASSOCIATION
Newark, New Jersey

To the Session and
The Central Presbyterian Church,
Newark, N.J.

Dear Brothers,

On the occasion of the one hundredth Anniversary of the Central Presbyterian Church, the South End Protestant Ministers Association, representing all the Protestant Churches of this part of Newark, extends its heartiest felicitations and congratulations.

The relationship of your late pastor to this Association was so cordial and helpful that we feel a special interest in this centenary observance.

We rejoice in this century of service which you have rendered to Christ in this area and, as we extend our greetings, we assure you of our earnest prayers for future growth and usefulness.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

Wallace L. Gallup

Dear Mr. Lingeran:

I am enclosing a short message
for your people to be read on Sunday. I am sorry that I cannot be there myself, but I have arranged to preach in the Westminster Church of Elizabeth.

Hoping that you may have a wonderful day in the Church, and that the service may provide you
with spiritual uplift,

I am, with warmest personal regards,

Very sincerely yours,

Joseph Hunter
Stated Clerk.
